

What is the NBA Summer League?

The NBA Summer League is a basketball tournament that takes place every summer before the start of the NBA season. It is a great opportunity for young players to showcase their skills and compete against other talented players from around the world.

The Summer League is divided into three different events: the California Classic Summer League, the Salt Lake City Summer League, and the NBA 2K24 Summer League. The California Classic and Salt Lake City Summer Leagues are both held in July, and the NBA 2K24 Summer League is held in Las Vegas in late July and early August.

Each team in the NBA sends a roster of young players to compete in the Summer League. The rosters typically feature rookies, undrafted players, and second-year players who are trying to make their mark in the NBA.
